Department of Urology General Teaching Hospital and Charles University 1st Medical School in Prague

The Department's activity includes comprehensive medical care, education and research in urology. It provides undergraduate and postgraduate education in urology and paediatric urology. The comprehensive urological care (surgical and outpatient) also includes inter-disciplinary oncological therapy and close follow-up of cancer patients. Another priority of the Department is comprehensive care for patients with urinary stones, including extracorporeal lithotripsy, and many other reconstructive surgeries of the urogenital system. The Department diagnoses and treats neurogenous urination disorders, incontinence, infertility and erectile dysfunction. Besides the open and endoscopic surgery, almost all field of laparoscopic urology are performed, including paediatric urology. The children's urology ward concentrates on comprehensive care for children with hereditary defects of the urogenital system, with dysfunctions of the lower urinary tract, with kidney stones and disorders of sexual development.

The Hospital is one of three Teaching Hospitals in the capital city of the Czech Republic, which is located in the center of Prague.
